

There are many different types of text in the world. Some are written in a simple, clear font, while others are written in a more decorative, stylized font. The type of text you use can make a big difference in how your message is received. For example, a simple, clear font is often used for official documents, while a more decorative font is often used for creative projects. The type of text you use can also affect the readability of your message. If you use a font that is too small or too decorative, it can be difficult for your audience to read your message. Therefore, it is important to choose the right type of text for your message and your audience.

One

Two

Three

